Florida Trend

AROUND THE STATE
Miami-Dade

MIAMI
MIAMI BEACH
THE KEYS

TECHNOLOGY

▸ Kaseya, a global provider of cloud-based information technology management and security software, nearly tripled its office space in Brickell, leasing 64,716 square feet at 777 Brickell. ▸ Miami Dade College received a $15-million grant from the John S. and James L. Knight Foundation. Miami-Dade County, Miami and the Miami Downtown Development Authority to bolster its emerging technology programs. Every MDC student will soon be required to take at least one course in artificial intelligence. The college will also offer a bachelor's degree and a certificate program in A.I. MDC will also open an A.I. center that will bring together industry leaders, teachers and students. MDC and Miami are also creating a Miami Tech Charter School, planned to open this August on MDC's Wolfson campus. Students will graduate with an associate's degree from Miami Dade College for free.